

ROUTE #4 PACIFIC RIM

(VICTORIA & NANAIMO) PARKSVILLE / PORT ALBERNI / TOFINO

The remote West Coast of Vancouver Island has daily bus connections to Nanaimo and Victoria, making this remote part of the province easily accessible to those travelling without wheels. Tofino Bus is the main carrier throughout this region. There is also a ferry that travels Alberni Inlet from Port Alberni to Bamfield or Ucluelet. The ferry stops at the Alberni Quay, which is on the other end of town from the bus depot. It does not matter much though because the boat and Tofino Bus do not connect with each other without an overnight layover in Port Alberni.

Transit is limited within this region. The city of Port Alberni does have a transit system that provides service within the city. Tofino also has a small transit system providing transit between Tofino Village and Cox Bay during the summer months. Details about the ladder can be found on the next page. Tofino Transit is FREE.
